

Course Overview

Lectures about general population in the Arctic. Planning Community based health research and implementation

Case study in Arctic Health: Group work.

Lecture to introduce the multidisciplinary research, collaboration, questions of ethics from research examples.

All session will have group work and discussion

NUNAMED conference will be a part of the PhD course and all students have a presentation at the NUNAMED conference.

Specific topics:

- Arctic Population modeling its future by levels of education
- Demographic measures
- Participatory research methods
- Community engagement
- Ethical challenges.
- Multidisciplinary research
- Good practices of study design
- All student have presentation at the NUNAMED conference

More specific program a literature list will be send to all participants

Course details and program on page 2

PhD-Course
Community based health research – methods and strategies
October 2nd – October 7th, 2019

Program

Course Details

Academic level(s)	PhD, pre-PhD
Country	Greenland
Language	English
Institution	University of Greenland
Start date	2nd October 2019
End date	7th October 2019 (5th-7th NUNAMED)
Registration deadline	1.08.2019 (gm@peqqik.gl)
ECTS credits	3.0
Location	Greenland Centre of Health Research, University of Greenland, Nuuk, Greenland

Community Based Health Research

Gwen Healey MSc, PhD, Executive Director Qaujigiartiit Health Research Centre
Beth Rink Associate Professor, Community Health, Montana State University

Arctic Health and Diet

Magritt Brustad Professor, dr.scient., Head of Department of Community Medicine, Arctic University of Norway
Jon Ø. Odland Professor of Global Health, University for Science and Technology, Trondheim

Diabetes and Inuit

Michael Lynge Pedersen MD GP Associated Professor, Ilisimatusarfik
Marit E. Jørgensen Professor, PhD, Ilisimatusarfik and Steno Diabetes Center Copenhagen.

Health research at the Hospital

Lene Seibæk, Associate professor, PhD, Ilisimatusarfik and Aarhus University
Karsten Rex MD, GP, PhD-stud. Department of Clinical Medicine, Aalborg University Hospital /
Greenland Centre of Health Research, University of Greenland

To be old in the Arctic

Tenna Jensen Associated Professor, SAXO Institute
Stig Andersen Professor, Ilisimatusarfik and Aalborg University

Examples of Arctic health research project Contaminant, Ear diseases and Infectious diseases, Community Based Research

Berit Schei Professor, Women's Health, Norwegian University of Science and Technology
Anders Koch Professor, Ilisimatusarfik
Preben Homoe Professor, Ilisimatusarfik and Copenhagen University
Eva Bonefeld-Jørgensen Professor, Ilisimatusarfik and Aarhus University
Peter Vedsted Professor, Leading regional doctor, Region Avannaa, Greenland
Pal Weihe Professor, Occupational and Public Health, Faroe Islands

For further information contact Gert Mulvad gm@peqqik.gl

Community based Research, Implementation, Involvement, Multidisciplinary.

Tags:

Course Directors

Professor Lise Hounsgaard
Ilisimatusarfik/University of Greenland

MD,Doctor h.c Gert Mulvad
Ilisimatusarfik/University of Greenland